Other Matter

Meeting the Challenges of Cybersecurity

The increasing value of payment card data and personal information is driving more organizations of all sizes to prepare for the potential of a cyberattack. Hackers and cyber-thieves have become adept at pilfering confidential information, using ransomware to extort money and leveraging social engineering techniques to trick employees into wiring funds.

As a first step to improving their cyber-readiness, companies need to perform a cybersecurity risk assessment to determine the current state of cybersecurity processes, controls and technology. This effort can determine how well the organization can prevent, detect and respond to cyber-attacks.

Key to the assessment process is choosing an appropriate framework against which the organization may be evaluated. In fact, two nationally recognized organizations have developed cybersecurity frameworks.

The National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) has developed a Cybersecurity Framework to assist organizations manage cybersecurity-related risk more effectively. The NIST Cybersecurity Framework provides a prioritized, flexible, repeatable and a cost-effective approach that can be used in any industry or organization.

Once the framework has been chosen, we recommend that management consider performing a cybersecurity risk assessment to gauge the overall readiness and maturity of existing controls and perform appropriate testing of the IT infrastructure and employee awareness.

Future Accounting Pronouncements

FASB Issues New Revenue Recognition Standard

The model for revenue recognition is changing with FASB's release on May 28, 2014, of ASU 2014-09, Revenue from Contracts with Customers (the ASU). The goal of the final standard is to improve consistency of requirements, comparability of revenue recognition practices and usefulness of disclosures.

The ASU applies to all contracts with customers, other than those within the scope of other standards, such as leases, insurance, financing arrangements, financial instruments and guarantees. For nonprofit organizations, the primary income streams -contributions and investment returns- are not in scope. However, all ancillary income must be reviewed for inclusion under the new guidance – subscriptions, membership dues, etc. The ASU does not apply to other parties to a contract who are not customers, i.e. collaborative arrangements.

The core principle of the new model is that an entity would recognize revenue as it transfers goods or services to customers in an amount that reflects the consideration it expects to receive. In order to achieve that core principle, an entity would apply a five-step model.

The five-step application is as follows:

- Step 1: Identify the contract with a customer
- Step 2: Identify the separate performance obligations in the contract
- Step 3: Determine the transaction price
- Step 4: Allocate the transaction price to the separate performance obligations in the contract
- Step 5: Recognize revenue when (or as) performance obligations are satisfied

Because this is a principles based standard, significant additional management judgement and estimates will be required at adoption and on an ongoing basis. These judgements and estimates include, but are not limited to, bifurcating exchange and non-exchange components, the identification of separate performance obligations and determining the transaction price.

While revenue timing and presentation may not change materially, nonprofit organizations will have to evaluate and document its consideration of recognition of revenue under the new five-step model.

The standard requires extensive new qualitative and quantitative revenue disclosures to enable financial statement users to understand the nature, amount, timing and uncertainty of revenue and cash flows arising from contracts with customers.

The standard may be adopted using a full retrospective approach or a modified, cumulative effect approach wherein the guidance is applied only to existing contracts as of the date of initial application, and to new contracts transacted after that date.

An entity choosing a modified approach would not restate comparative years, but it would be required to provide additional disclosures in the initial year of adoption.

The standard is in effect for the fiscal year beginning October 1, 2019.

FASB Proposes Guidance on Accounting for Contributions

The Financial Accounting Standards Board is proposing to clarify existing guidance on determining whether a transaction with a resource provider, e.g., the receipt of funds under a government grant or contract, is a contribution or an exchange transaction. The proposed guidance requires all organizations to evaluate whether the resource provider is receiving commensurate value in a transfer of assets transaction, and whether contributions are conditional or unconditional.

If commensurate value is received by the resource provider, the transaction would be accounted for as an exchange transaction by applying Topic 606, Revenue from Contracts with Customers, or other topics. The exposure draft clarifies that a resource provider is not synonymous with the general public. Indirect benefit received by the public as a result of the assets transferred is not equivalent to commensurate value received by the resource provider. If commensurate value is not received by the resource provider, i.e., the transaction is nonexchange, the recipient organization would record the transaction as a contribution under Topic 958 and determine whether the contribution is conditional or unconditional.

FASB expects that the improved guidance could result in more grants and contracts being accounted for as contributions (often conditional contributions) than under current generally accepted accounting principles. Because of this, it believes the clarifying guidance about whether a contribution is conditional or unconditional, which affects the timing of revenue recognition, is important. Both the recipient and resource provider would equally apply the guidance.

The proposed standard has the same effective dates as Topic 606—effective for the fiscal year beginning October 1, 2019.

FASB Issues New Lease Accounting Standard

On February 25, 2016, FASB issued Accounting Standards Update (ASU) 2016-02, Leases (Topic 842), the long-awaited new standard on lease accounting.

Under the new ASU, lessees will recognize lease assets and liabilities on their balance sheet for all leases with terms of more than 12 months. The new lessee accounting model retains two types of leases and is consistent with the lessee accounting model under existing GAAP. One type of lease (finance leases) will be accounted for in substantially the same manner as capital leases are accounted for today. The other type of lease (operating leases) will be accounted for (both in the income statement and statement of cash flows) in a manner consistent with today's operating leases. Lessor accounting under the new standard is fundamentally consistent with existing GAAP.

Lessees and lessors would be required to provide additional qualitative and quantitative disclosures to help financial statement users assess the amount, timing, and uncertainty of cash flows arising from leases. These disclosures are intended to supplement the amounts recorded in the financial statements so that users can understand more about the nature of an organization's leasing activities.

The final leases standard will be effective for the fiscal year beginning October 1, 2021. Early application is permitted.

This communication is intended solely for the information and use of management, the board of directors, the audit committee, and others within Girl Scouts of Western Ohio and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these specified parties.
